ADDITIONS TO THE AGLC (4TH ED)

Purpose

The purpose of this document is to clarify and supplement the AGLC, and to explain the editing practices of the UNSW Law Journal. This document should be as consistent with the AGLC as possible, only making additions or amendments where absolutely necessary.

Underlying Principles

1. Clarity and accuracy. Citations should allow the reader to identify and locate the source as easily as possible. Citations should also make clear how the source has been used.
2. Consistency. Consistency should be maintained, especially for decisions which might otherwise be categorised as arbitrary, such as rules of spelling or typography.
3. Simplicity and efficiency. Plain language is to be preferred. Language should be no more esoteric than is reasonably necessary.
4. Aesthetic appeal. Where one alternative in a typographical matter is more pleasing to the eye, it is to be preferred.

If an issue is not covered by a specific rule, use common sense, and provide as much information as is necessary for ease of retrieval.

1.1 General Format of Footnotes

1.1.5 Referring to Following Pages

RULE: When an author wants to refer to a particular page number in a cited work and the following pages of the article, section or chapter, they may use ‘ff’.

EXAMPLE: Friedrich Juenger, ‘Tort Choice of Law in a Federal System’ (1997) 19(4) Sydney Law Review 529, 540 ff

1.4 Subsequent References

1.4.1 General Rule

RULE: Cross-references in parentheses can never be used for cases and statutes. This partially overrides AGLC rules 1.4.1 and 3.5. Short titles may still be used.

RULE: Where more than one work by the same author is cited in an article, cross-references for each of the author’s works should read:

- Articles: Author’s family name, ‘Abbreviated title of work’ (n x) pinpoint.
- Books: Author’s family name, Abbreviated title of work (n x) pinpoint.

NOTE: The formatting of the abbreviated title should match that of the source title in its initial citation. For example, book titles should be italicised, and titles of journal articles should be enclosed in single quotation marks.

NOTE: When abbreviating source titles for cross-references under this Additions rule, a formal short title under AGLC rule 1.4.4 is required to be added to the first reference to a source, in accordance with AGLC rule 1.4.4. If a short title was previously only provided in the footnotes, the short title should also be provided in the text when it is first used in text.

1.4.2 References within a Text

RULE: Where the author references their own article, it should be referred to as an ‘article’ not, for example, as a ‘paper’.

EXAMPLE: ‘This article will argue...’ not ‘This paper will argue...’

RULE: Where the author references a part of the current article, it should appear in the following form: Part III(A).

EXAMPLE: ‘The legal test for necessity will be set out in Part II(B)(1)(b).’

RULE: When referring discursively to anything lower than a part of the article, refer to it as a ‘section’ of the article. Do not use ‘sub part’ or ‘sub sub part’.

1.4.6 Referencing within a Footnote

RULE: When referencing any discursive text that appears in the footnotes, the reference should appear after the text, immediately following a colon.

EXAMPLE: ‘There is some judicial support for the argument that a reputation as a fraudster would fall outside the scope of the offence’: Dias v O’Sullivan [1949] SASR 195, 204.

1.5 Quotations

1.5.4 Editing Quotations

RULE: Punctuation in quotations should adhere to AGLC style. In quotations, it is necessary to make the following changes to punctuation:

- Change hyphens, en-dashes and em-dashes (AGLC rule 1.5.1);
- Omit full stops from acronyms, abbreviations, initials and heading numbers and letters (AGLC rule 1.6.1);
- Change quotation marks (AGLC rule 1.5.1);
- Italicise case names, statute titles, treaty titles and titles of other sources (AGLC rule 1.5.4);
- Replace spaces with commas in numbers in quotations: 1 000 000 to 1,000,000 (see AGLC rule 1.12.1), but do not write numbers under 10 in words (this is an Additions rule
- Amend superscripts (eg, change ‘19th’ to ‘19th’) (this is an Additions rule).

RULE: To remove letters from a word in a quotation, replace the whole word in square brackets.

EXAMPLE: To change ‘decides’ to ‘decide’, use ‘[decide]’ [Not: ‘decide[]’].

1.5.6 Punctuation within Quotations

RULE: When a quotation ends in a question mark or exclamation mark, the punctuation mark is included in the quotation. When it ends in any other mark, such as a full stop or comma, the punctuation is omitted from the quotation. This partially overrides AGLC rule 1.5.6.

EXAMPLES:

- According to Tilbury the question is: ‘Must causation be a real limitation on the recovery of compensation in equity?’
- Justice Dawson opined that ‘aboriginal title is neither a personal nor proprietary right’.

1.5.9 Order of Indicators at the End of Footnotes

NOTE: See the example in footnote 16 in AGLC rule 1.5.9, demonstrating that the order is: (emphasis in original) (citations omitted).

1.6 Punctuation

1.6.1 Full Stops

RULE: Full stops should only have single spaces after them.

1.6.3 Dashes

RULE: Em-dashes should not be used. En-dashes should be used to indicate an interruption within a sentence or in place of a colon. En-dashes should also be used to indicate a span between numbers. This overrides AGLC rule 1.6.3.

1.7 Capitalisation

1.7.1 Capitalisation Examples

RULE: The following words should generally be capitalised:

- Part (when the author refers to other sections of his/her own article eg, Part III).
- The name of any institution, when referred to in its specific sense (if used in its generic sense, use lower case). For example:

In a specific sense – ‘the High Court interpreted section 51 of the Constitution ...’

In a generic sense – ‘if we compare interpretations by high courts in countries with written constitutions with those without written constitutions ...’

There are specific capitalisation requirements for the following words:

- Minister, member or senator: These are not capitalised unless they refer to a specific person, or in the case of a minister, to a specific portfolio. For example, ‘Senator Stott Despoja said ...’ or ‘the Minister for Foreign Affairs’.
- House: ‘House’ is capitalised when referring to the House of Representatives, the House of Commons or the House of Lords. Often, an author will abbreviate the House of Representatives to just ‘the House’, and this should be capitalised (similarly, ‘Houses’ when referring to the Senate and the House of Representatives). ‘The Lower House’ and ‘the Upper House’ should be capitalised when used interchangeably with ‘the House of Representatives’ and ‘the Senate’. When talking generically about bicameral legislatures, ‘house’ is not capitalised, nor is it capitalised in the terms ‘people’s house’, ‘States’ house’ or ‘house of review’.

- Federation: Capitalise only when referring to the event that took place in 1901. So, it is the ‘centenary of Federation’, but Australia ‘is a federation of States’. (Note that in ‘centenary of Federation’, ‘centenary’ is not capitalised).
- Government: Capitalise when referring to a specific government in power at a particular time. For example, the Hawke Government or the Howard Government. ‘Federal Government’ or just ‘Government’ are capitalised when used interchangeably with a specific (named) government. All other uses of ‘government’ (including ‘the federal government’) are not capitalised.
- Parliament: Always capitalise, unless ‘parliaments’ are referred to in a general sense. Also capitalise ‘Members of Parliament’.

1.7.2 Capitalisation of Subheadings in Cited Materials

RULE: The first word in a subheading of a title in any cited material should be capitalised, even if it is an article, conjunction or preposition.

EXAMPLE: Gene Rowe and Lynn J Frewer, ‘Public Participation Methods: A Framework for Evaluation’ (2000) 25 Science, Technology & Human Values 3.

1.7.3 Capitalisation of Hyphenated Words of Titles of Cited Materials

RULE: In titles of cited materials, where two or more parts of a compound word are separated by a hyphen or hyphens, each part should be capitalised (eg, ‘Decision-Maker’, not ‘Decision-maker’). Where a word is modified by a hyphenated prefix, only the first letter should be capitalised (eg, ‘Re-enact’, not ‘Re-Enact’).

NOTE: Consult the Macquarie Dictionary to determine whether a compound or modified word should be hyphenated at all. If the Macquarie Dictionary yields an odd result, it will be up to the discretion of the Issue Editor to determine whether the Macquarie Dictionary is to be departed from.

1.7.4 Capitalisation of Parts of Speech

RULE: In accordance with AGLC rule 1.7, all words in a title except articles, conjunctions and prepositions should be capitalised.

However, ‘to’ is never capitalised unless it is the first word in the title or subheading of the title. This overrides AGLC rule 1.7 to the extent of any inconsistency.

EXAMPLE: Jason Bosland and Jonathan Gill, ‘The Principle of Open Justice and the Judicial Duty to Give Public Reasons’ (2014) 38 Melbourne University Law Review 482.

EXAMPLE: The following table lists examples of parts of speech that should not be capitalised.

Article	Conjunction	Preposition
the	and	on a	but	with
an	or	before, around, under, etc
		to (whether as a preposition or as part of an infinitive)

The following words are commonly mistaken as words that should not be capitalised, but they should be capitalised.

Pronouns	Verbs
It / Its	Is / Was
His / Him / He	Are / Were
Hers / Her / She	Be
They / Their

1.8 Italicisation

1.8.2 Italicisation of Source Titles

RULE: All case names, statute titles, treaty titles and titles of other materials that should be italicised according to the rules in the AGLC and the Additions should appear in italics, even if they are not italicised in the original source or if they appear in a heading or title that is already italicised. This partially overrides AGLC rule 4.2.

EXAMPLE:

K Barker, Warren Swain and Ross Grantham (eds), The Law of Misstatements: 50 Years on from Hedley Byrne v Heller (Hart Publishing, 2015).

EXAMPLE:

2 The History of the Statute of Frauds

1.8.4 Italicisation of Abstracts

RULE: All case names, statute titles, treaty titles and titles of other materials that should be italicised according to the rules in the AGLC and the Additions should appear in italics in an abstract.

EXAMPLE:

This article explores an ancient tale of customary public rights that starts and ends with the landmark decision of Brown v Tasmania. In Brown, Australia's highest court recognised a public right to protest in forests. Harking back 800 years to the limits of legal memory, and the Forest Charter of 1217, this right is viewed through the metaphor of the lawful forest, a relational notion of property at the margins of legal orthodoxy. Inherent to this tale is the tension that pits private enclosure against the commons, a contest that endures across time and place – from 13th century struggles against the Norman legal forest, through to modern claims of rights to the city.

1.11 Dates and Time

1.11.2 Time

RULE: Time should be written in 12-hour time, with the hours and minutes separated by a full stop and no space before ‘am’ or ‘pm’. This partially overrides AGLC rule 1.11.2.

EXAMPLE: 7.00pm, 8.30am, NOT 7:30 pm, 14:15.

1.12 Headings

RULE: Headings in the UNSW Law Journal should be consistent with the UNSW Law Journal Style Guide (see page 13 below). This overrides AGLC rule 1.12. Note in particular that small and large capitals are never used for headings or authors’ names.

1.14 Abbreviations

1.14.1 General Rules on Abbreviations

In general, abbreviations should not be used in the text of an article unless first written out in full. However, the following abbreviations are acceptable:

9.2.4 Official Records [United Nations Materials]

1.14.2 Abbreviations at the Start of Sentences in Footnotes

RULE: Abbreviations in footnotes should not be used at the start of a sentence, except for initialisms (such as NSW, SA, WA and ACT).

EXAMPLES: ‘NSW took a different legislative approach’. ‘Section 5 of the Act applied’.

1.14.3 Abbreviating Names of Institutions

RULE: In accordance with AGLC rule 1.4.5, institutional bodies should be abbreviated in parentheses immediately following the first use of the term, surrounded by single quotation marks. ‘The’ should never be used in an abbreviation.

Names of institutions should be capitalised in the same way that the institution itself capitalises its name:

EXAMPLE: ... the Independent Commission Against Corruption (‘ICAC’).

RULE: Where an institution is the author of a source, do not use its abbreviated name when crediting it in a citation as the author of the source. For example, cite a report by ICAC as: ‘Independent Commission Against Corruption, Report ...’ not ‘ICAC, Report ...’.

1.14.4 Abbreviating Names of Judges Writing Curially

RULE: Members of the Judiciary may be referred to by their abbreviated title (eg, Gaudron J) every time they are cited. This is so even if it is being used to start a sentence or to indicate the possessive (eg, ‘Gaudron J’s opinion ...’; ‘McLelland CJ at CL said ...’).

1.14.5 ‘Eg’ and ‘ie’

RULE: ‘Eg’ and ‘ie’ may be used in the text of an article, as well as in the footnotes. Wherever ‘ie’ or ‘eg’ are used, they should always be followed by a comma. However, ‘eg’ and ‘ie’ should never be used at the start of a sentence (see Additions rule 1.14.2).

NOTE: Where the author has used ‘eg’, it does not need to be changed to ‘for example’ (unless it is used at the start of a sentence). Where the author has used ‘for example’, it does not need to be changed to ‘eg’.

1.14.6 Abbreviating Case Names

NOTES:

- In accordance with AGLC rule 2.1.14, short titles for case names may be used where they assist the reader. For example, a short title would not be given for a case name that is brief and easy to read (eg, Raymond v Honey), or where a case is only referred to once in the article.
- If a short title was previously only provided in the footnotes, the short title should also be provided in the text when it is first used in text.
- After a short title has been given, the case should from then on be referred to by its abbreviated, italicised name.
- It is only necessary to footnote the case again when the author quotes directly from or paraphrases the case or refers the reader to a particular page or section, in which case the relevant footnote should include the abbreviated case name, the citation and a pinpoint reference, eg: Leech [1993] 4 All ER 539, 552.

2.1 Case Name

2.1.16 Deceased

RULE: In case names, write (deceased) out in full.

2.2 Reported Decisions

2.2.2 Law Report Series

NOTE: You are required to change the report series to one higher up on the list provided in AGLC rule 2.2.2, if the case appears in more than one report series. Note that this means the pinpoint reference will be different; please ensure the pinpoint reference is changed as well as the series.

2.6 Quasi-Judicial Decisions

2.6.1 Tribunal Decisions

RULE: When citing tribunal decisions in medium neutral form, omit the full date. This is consistent with AGLC rule 2.3.1.

2.6.3 Tribunal Decisions – Material Not Available to the Public

NOTE: If the material from a tribunal is not available to the public (such as the determinations of the Victim’s Compensation Tribunal), include as much information as possible to enable readers to identify the source.

EXAMPLE: New South Wales Victims of Crime Compensation Tribunal, Notice of Determination: File Ref 73123, 15 February 2002. Copy consulted by the author with the permission of Valerie Linow.

3.1 Statutes

3.1.4 Pinpoint References

RULE: Abbreviations for pinpoint references to an Act (eg s 245, pt 3, ch 13, art 33) or other instruments should only be used in footnotes, not in the text. Such abbreviations also cannot be used where the word appears at the start of a sentence.

In the body of the text, pinpoint references should be written out in full (eg, section 245, part 3, chapter 13, article 33). Pinpoint references should not be capitalised (the following are incorrect: eg, Section 245, Part 3, Chapter 13, Article 33).

3.5 Legislative Materials – Short Title and Subsequent References

RULE: A shortened title may be provided and used in subsequent references in accordance with AGLCR rule 1.4.1, for a piece of delegated legislation or Bill. The full title for the Australian Constitution, Explanatory Memoranda, Statements and Notes, legislative history or quasi-legislative material must be used in subsequent references in accordance with AGLCR rule 1.4.1.

3.6 Constitutions

Additional Note: When referring to chapters of the Australian Constitution, the full word Chapter (with a capital ‘C’) is to be used.

EXAMPLE: ‘Gaudron J referred to Chapter III of the Australian Constitution’.

3.6.1 Constitutional Alterations

RULE: Constitutional alterations should be cited as follows:

Constitutional alterations that have passed are cited as follows:

Example	Constitution Alteration	(Retirement of Judges)	1977	(Cth)
Rule	Constitution Alteration	(Title)	Year	(Jurisdiction)

Constitutional alterations that were not passed are cited as follows:

Example	Constitution Alteration	(Preamble)	1999	(Cth)
Rule	Constitution Alteration	(Title)	Year	(Jurisdiction)

The words ‘Act’ or ‘Bill’ are not to be used when citing constitutional alterations.

7.2 Research Papers, Theses and Similar Documents

This rule applies to publications released by institutions of a similar nature to research papers, discussion papers, working papers, theses and dissertations. For documents that do not fall within this rule, see AGLC rule 7.15.

7.2.6 AGLC Rule 7.2 for Miscellaneous Documents

RULE: AGLC rule 7.2 operates as a catch-all and should be used when the source cannot fit in another category. In these cases, the rule should be adapted as necessary to respond to the relevant information (or absence of it). For example, an agreement and ABS statistics may appear as follows:

	Council of Australian Governments,	‘Food Regulation Agreement’	(Intergovernmental Agreement			, 3 July 2008)	cl 10
	Australian Bureau of Statistics,	‘Labour Force, Australia’	(Publication	No 6202.0		, February 2015)	39
Rule	Author/ Parties,	‘Title’	(Document Type/Series	No	Institution /Forum Name	, Full Date)	Pinpoint

7.11 Newspaper Articles

7.11.1 Printed Newspapers

NOTE: A printed article does not need to be cited in preference to the electronic version. An author may cite either the electronic newspaper or the printed newspaper.

7.11.2 Electronic News Websites

RULE: Online news websites that are not blogs are to be regarded as electronic newspapers. A printed version of the website is not required. Blogs are to be cited in accordance with AGLC rule 7.15.

7.15 Internet Materials

7.15.1 Priority

RULE: A source should be cited as an internet material in accordance with AGLC rule 7.15 only if it cannot be cited in accordance with any other rule.

7.17 Material on File and Unpublished Manuscripts

Occasionally material cited may be confidential, unpublished, or otherwise difficult for the public to access.

RULE: Journal articles and books should be cited in accordance with AGLC rules 5.11 and 6.8. For other types of sources, fill in as much material as possible and accompany the citation with ‘(copy on file with author)’.

RULE: For manuscripts where it is not known where the paper is to be published, cite as follows:

Example	Yun Park et al,	‘Executive Pay Practices of Firms with Dominant Shareholder CEOs’	(2002)	(unpublished, copy on file with author)	8
Rule	Author	‘Title’	(Year)	(unpublished, copy on file with author)	Pinpoint
